Quick Cross-Browser Testing
Mobile emulation

Improvements to My Organization:

As an advertising agency, we need to see how our online ads would look like on different browsers. Before we used the Google Chrome developer emulation tool, but due to a difference between what we saw and what the client saw in a real browser, we realized that something is wrong.

Other Solutions Considered:

I made online research for a better emulators, and Sauce Labs was one of them. So many devices and OSs to choose from, with live remote sessions, we could see real results and real looks of websites across all platforms we needed to check.

Other Advice:

First it started as a Trial account, but now we are considering an full account to use always as our testing tool.
